The Tranquility of Haiku Poetry

Haiku, a traditional Japanese form of poetry, is known for its simplicity and brevity. Haiku typically consist of three lines, with five syllables in the first line, seven syllables in the second line, and five syllables in the third line.

The concise nature of haiku forces poets to distill their observations and emotions into a few carefully chosen words. This process results in poems that are both evocative and profound, capturing the essence of a moment without unnecessary embellishment.
